Journalism and Conflict in Indonesia Steve Sharp, 2013 This book examines through the case study of Indonesia over recent decades how the reporting of violence can drive the escalation of violence and how journalists can alter their reporting practices in order to have the opposite effect and promote peace It discusses the nature of press freedom in Indonesia from 1966 onwards considers the relationship between the press and politicians and explores journalists' working methods It goes on to outline in detail the communal wars in eastern Indonesia in the period 1999-2000 arguing that communication as much as physical preparations for violence were key to bringing about the wars with journalists' rigid professional routines and newswriting conventions causing them to reproduce and enlarge the battle cries of those at war The book concludes by advocating a development communication approach to journalism in transitional settings in order to help journalists to counter the disintegrative tendencies of failing states and the communal strife that can result

Conflict, Terrorism and the Media in Asia Benjamin Cole, 2006-09-27 There are many different kinds of sub national conflicts across Asia with a variety of causes but since September 11 2001 these have been increasingly portrayed as part of the global terrorist threat to be dealt with by the War on Terror This major new study examines a wide range of such conflicts showing how despite their significant differences they share the role of the media as interlocutor and exploring how the media exercises this role The book raises a number of issues concerning how the media report different forms of political violence and conflict including issues of impartiality in the media's relations with governments and insurgents and how the focus on the War on Terror has led to some forms of violence notably those employed by states for political purposes to be overlooked As the issue of international terrorism remains one of the most pressing issues of the modern day this is a significant and important book which will interest the general reader and scholars from all disciplines Mekim Nius David Robie, 2004 From the establishment of the region's first journalism school at the University of Papua New Guinea in 1975 with New Zealand aid Mekim Nius traces three decades of South Pacific media education history Dr David Robie profiles journalism at UPNG Divine Word University and the University of the South Pacific in Fiji with Australian Commonwealth French NZ and UNESCO aid He also examines the impact of the region's politics on the media in the two major economies Fiji and Papua New Guinea from the Bougainville conflict and Sandline mercenary crisis to Fiji's coups Back cover
