Foreign Owned Firms Are They Different:

The Labor Market Effects of Foreign-owned Firms Rita Almeida, 2004 China's Domestic Private Firms: Anne S. Tsui, Yanjie Bian, 2014-12-18 One of the most important outcomes of market reforms in China over the past 20 years has been the emergence of a significant domestic private sector which now accounts for almost a third of China's GDP and is by far the country's most important source of employment growth This book is the first in depth analysis of the management and operation of these domestic private firms which are defined as companies or organizations created by PRC citizens including township enterprises and collectives The book provides a comprehensive and multidisciplinary perspective on the factors important to the successful operation and growth of these firms It begins with a review of the literature on the topic in three different disciplines economics sociology and management each followed by several chapters covering recent developments in these areas Featuring contributions by distinguished scholars and China experts the work concludes with an insightful chapter on the future of China's public sector in the global economy Survey of Current Business, 1994 Economic Incentives Bela Balassa, Herbert Giersch, 1986-05-06 Lessons from the Economic Transition Salvatore Zecchini, 2013-12-01 An attentive reader embarking on this book might wonder what the economic transition to which the title refers might be In this century almost all countries have gone through periods of economic transition but which period of economic history can claim to embody the notion or to represent the era of the transition Definitely no country or group of countries has experienced anything comparable to the economic upheavals that the fall of communism has brought about in a large portion of the world in just three years 1989 to 1991 No other transition to date has prompted more interest and more studies among economists academics and policy makers than has the transformation of centrally planned economies into market based systems It is this transformation that has come to define the transition Early in the transformation process in November 1990 with the support of the Centre for Co operation with the Economies in Transition CCET I launched a conference to examine the challenges faced by these countries About six years have gone by and a new economic landscape has emerged in that part of the world The difficulties in transforming these economies have exceeded all expectations and economic performances have varied considerably across countries The time has come therefore to make a first evaluation of progress and problems with a view to extracting useful policy lessons to guide policy makers in successfully completing the transition in the near future Intellectual property use in middle income countries: the case of Chile World Intellectual Property Organization, Carsten Fink, Bronwyn H. Hall, Christian Helmers, 2018 We analyze the use of intellectual property IP by firms in Chile over the decade 1995 2005 as the then middle income country experienced rapid economic growth of 4.7 percent per year We use a novel dataset that contains a combination of detailed firm level information from the annual manufacturing census information on firms innovative activities from Chile's innovation surveys and firms patent industrial design and trademark filings with the Chilean IP office We use these data to look at how IP use by companies has changed over time and analyze the determinants of IP use in particular first time use We find that sales growth prompts first time use of patents and trademarks though such use does not change the growth trajectory of firms nor does it improve their total factor productivity We also find that trademark use is associated with new to the world product innovation which suggests that branding may be an important mechanism to appropriate returns to innovation in a middle income country like Chile
