The Fires Beneath Seán Morrow, 2016-06-01 The life of Monica Wilson is a story of groundbreaking scholarship passionate creativity and personal tragedy during South Africa's bitter and divided twentieth century As a young anthropologist in the 1930s Monica immersed herself in the lives work and beliefs of African communities in southern and East Africa while carefully observing the effects of historical change At the core of her existence was her intellectual collaboration and intense personal relationship with her husband the brilliant but clinically depressive Godfrey Wilson who took his own life in 1944 After Godfrey's death Monica raised their two children and built a career as a leading academic at Fort Hare Rhodes University College and the University of Cape Town In a political environment where black academics were under constant threat and ideas were censored she outspokenly advocated racial equality and freedom of speech her publications emphasising a common South African identity and implicitly challenging apartheid separate development This fascinating biography moves between the Eastern Cape Cambridge Tanganyika Nyasaland Northern Rhodesia and Cape Town It explores the relationship between anthropology and history and the tensions between liberalism Christianity Marxism and apartheid ideology Drawing on the letters and diaries left by Monica and Godfrey Wilson this is a powerful story about politics race war faith love and loss

African Women in Governance: Policies and Stakeholder's Participation Tinuade Adekunbi Ojo, 2025-11-19 African Women in Governance Policies and Stakeholder's Participation presents the assumptions narratives and institutions that underpin the key concepts and investigate the limits and potential of financial inclusion development strategy for gender equality Despite the importance of financial inclusion in response to the growth and development of the economy critics have argued that financial inclusion represents regressive policies that have hindered the government from meeting the targeted ideological goals set for each country The hindrance might be traced to the 2007-2008 global financial crisis which crashed the global economy Many countries especially developing economies are yet to fully recover and achieve the set goals on financial inclusion for their economies Prabhakar 2019: 40 This is reiterated by Langley 2008 and Leyshon et al 2008: 6 who argue that most developing economies have abandoned financial inclusion and the government has passed the responsibilities to its people The themes identified will provide guidance on the compilation of state specific profiles on different national approaches to financial inclusion gender policies The main objective of this volume is to understand different processes for financial inclusion to gender issues at a national level And to help encourage reflection on what lessons could be learnt between states and what factors cause divergence in multilateral settings so that they can be understood and hopefully addressed
