Surwit, David Alberts, 2012-12-06 Cytological screening for the identification of intraepithelial neoplasia of the cervix as a precursor lesion for cervical cancer has been well established as an effective means for decreasing the incidence of invasive carcinoma Despite these screening efforts carcinoma of the cervix remains one of the more common malignancies in women and it is the leading cause of cancer death in many countries in the western hemisphere It is estimated that in 1986 there will still be 14 000 new cases of invasive cancer with 6 800 deaths in the United States alone Unfortunately many of these patients present with advanced disease posing difficult management problems for the clinician responsible for their care The treatment of early stage invasive carcinoma of the cervix lesions confined to the cervix and vagina remains either radical surgery radical radiation therapy or a combination thereof This approach is extraordinarily effective in the vast majority of patients However there remains a subset of patients with early stage disease that are at high risk for recurrence Dr Kjorstad Chapter 2 has identified adenocarcinomas and adenosquamous carcinomas as having a particularly poor prognosis In addition patients with more than three positive lymph nodes or with involvement of lymph nodes outside of the pelvis have a very poor prognosis He has identified the CEA as a potentially predictive marker for these patients with poor prognosis especially in patients with adenocarcinomas Cervical Cancer Jaime G. de la Garza-Salazar, Flavia Morales-Vásquez, Abelardo Meneses-Garcia, 2017-05-26 This book provides readers with a thorough review on cervical cancer treatment guidelines and emerging therapies available for the disease It reviews the epidemiology clinical features diagnosis and medical management of cervical cancer Given the increasing need for preventive strategies treatment optimization with collaborative and integrative work this book improves the actual and integral knowledge in this neoplasm Given the high prevalence of this disease in Latin America this is an important text for clinicians in this region This book outlines the state of the art in cervical cancer treatments and is an indispensable companion for oncologists gynecologists surgeons and medical students New Research on Cervical Cancer George Z.

Cervical Cancer G. Dallenbach-Hellweg,2012-12-06 Few subjects in gynecology let alone in medicine in general have provoked such interest or study as cervical cancer Although the wealth of monographs and books published on the subject would seem to obviate the need for more the great advances made in the medical sciences and in gynecological experience and techniques in recent years call for if not require a new book on cervical cancer to bring together the latest ideas and trends in its methods of study diagnosis and treatment Although precancerous lesions have become more common the number of women developing invasive cervical carcinomas has not increased owing in part to programs of patient education in part to screening examinations sponsored by the government The gynecologist is now able to detect with well tried and proved techniques precancerous states of the cervix and to treat these effectively before they become invasive cancer Accordingly recent interests in cervical cancer have shifted from the classic description of invasive carcinoma to newer studies of cause diagnosis therapy and terminology of its precursors As the reader will learn epidemiological studies as guides for the future account for and justifiably so an important part of this book New knowledge about changes in the morphology of cervical carcinoma confirms its dependency on hormonal stimulation Furthermore modern experiences serve to explain which therapy is best Overlapping of concepts and opinions between some chapters could not be avoided
