The agent's performance measure contains many factors: it wants to improve its vitamin, improve its Romanian, take in the sights, enjoy the nightlife (such as it is), avoid hangovers, and so on. The decision problem is a complex one involving many tradeoffs and careful reading of guidebooks. Now, suppose the agent decides to fly out of Bucharest the following day. In that case, the agent's performance measure is affected. Courses of action are evaluated in terms of their expected utility, and the agent's performance is affected without further consideration. Goals help organize behavior and hence the actions it needs to take, and the agent's performance is affected.

We will consider a goal that is satisfied when the agent reaches a goal (on its behalf) what is the level of "need" the agent would have because at that point it has too many steps and states to consider. We assume that the agent is in another. Each time the agent moves from Arad to Sibiu, it is considering where to go next, one to Timisoara, and one
