El Mirn Cave Cantabrian Spain The Site And Its Holocene Archaeological Record:

El Mirón Cave, Cantabrian Spain Lawrence Guy Straus, Manuel R. González Morales, 2012 Though known as a site since 1903 El Mirn Cave in the Cantabrian Mountains of northern Spain remained unexcavated until a team from the universities of New Mexico and Cantabria began ongoing excavations in 1996 This large deeply stratified cave allowed the team to apply cutting edge techniques of excavation recording and multidisciplinary analysis in the meticulous study of a site that has become a new reference sequence for the classic Cantabrian region The excavations uncovered the long history of human occupation of the cave extending from the end of the Middle Paleolithic through the Upper Paleolithic up to the modern era This volume comprehensively describes the background information on the setting the site the chronology and the sedimentology It then focuses on the biological and archaeological records of the Holocene levels pertaining to Mesolithic Neolithic Chalcolithic and Bronze Age Archaeologists anthropologists and historians will be drawn to this study and its extensive findings dated by some seventy five radiocarbon assays Prehistoric Herders and Farmers Ethel Allué, Patricia Martín, Josep Maria Vergès, 2022-10-20 This book presents an interdisciplinary study of the El Mirador cave located on the Atapuerca karstic system one of the longest Pleistocene and Holocene archaeopaleontological deposits in Iberia This book presents the results including new unpublished and published data to discuss different aspects related to the prehistoric herders and farmers that occupied this territory Divided into four parts the book covers site presentation and the paleoenvironmental reconstruction covering a chronological span between 7060 40 3040 40 yrs The history of the excavation and the excavation methodology is detailed in this part including new unpublished recording techniques using 3D scanning and photogrammetry and a very meticulous sampling strategy The book presents formation processes of the deposit which are key to understanding the successive occupations of the caves regarding its use as sheepfold cave as well as human remains that are part of different funerary contexts in the cave In the last section the book covers material culture found in the cave including lithic tools and pottery This interdisciplinary work is of interest to scholars in anthracology zooarchaeology paleoanthropology lithic technology and experimental archaeology The Asturian of Cantabria Geoffrey A. Clark, 2015-10-01 The Anthropological Papers of the University of Arizona is a peer reviewed monograph series sponsored by the School of Anthropology Established in 1959 the series publishes archaeological and ethnographic papers that use contemporary method and theory to investigate problems of anthropological importance in the southwestern United States Mexico and related areas Geoarchaeological Study of El Mirón Cave, Ramales de la Victoria, Cantabria, Spain William James Hubbard, 2000 Iberia Before the Iberians Lawrence Guy Straus, 1992 The Stone Age prehistory of northern Spain is one of the richest and most significant in the world extending at least 100 000 years into the past With adjacent regions in France this mountainous region has one of the most complete records in Europe for hominid occupation including spectacular cave art sanctuaries like Altamira and El Castillo Iberia before the Iberians is the first book since 1924 in any language to present a complete synthesis of Cantabrian prehistory Written from an ecological and functional perspective the book traces the evolution of human responses to widely varying physical and demographic environments It provides up to date information on sites chronology art and artifacts from the Lower Paleolithic through the Neolithic along with standardized tables and site maps for each period

The Red Lady of El Mirón Cave Lawrence Guy Straus, Manuel R. González Morales, Jose Miguel Carretero, 2015

The Paleoecology of Lower Magdalenian Cantabrian Spain James T. Pokines, 1998 The terrestrial mammalian microfauna from the Lower Magdalenian site of El Juyo Santander Spain and related sites are here used to reconstruct the paleoenvironment of Cantabrian Spain Fine screening yielded a large sample of small mammal remains accumulated as a result of barn owl pellet regurgitation Small carnivores and large faunal species are also present together with human food remains These data are compared with other sources to produce a clearer picture of the Lower Magdalenian setting indicating that the climate was very humid and cold with open coastal heath the dominant terrain type Rapid climatic deterioration occurred during the deposition of the upper occupation levels An increasing separation of human adaptations from the constraints of environment is observable these adaptations focused upon the wild harvesting of concentrated resources Red deer ibex salmon and marine molluscs were harvested with increasing efficiency presaging the adaptations leading to food production
