Globalizing Rural Development Competing Paradigms And Emerging Realities:

Globalizing Rural Development M C Behera, 2006-06-13 Ever since rural development emerged as an independent field of inquiry in the 1950s it has been subjected to many changes in emphasis and ideology. These changing perspectives have resulted in shifts in policies and programmes and have influenced the international discourse on rural development. The recently initiated process of globalisation has brought in its wake yet more rethinking on the most appropriate approach to rural development. Conceived against this background, this volume examines the impact of the changing paradigm of rural development on poverty alleviation, equity, gender, food security, employment and sustainability. The volume's major concern is: Can the goals of rural development be achieved in a globalised world? The central argument is that the new paradigm of rural development reflects the core-periphery dichotomy in which the core imposes on the periphery in a top-down approach in all major interventions. As a result, maintain the contributors, the new paradigm is ridden with limitations in addressing the highly differentiated needs and contexts of rural development both in developing and developed countries. Divided into four sections, including the introduction, the volume examines the inherently contradictory relationship between the new development paradigm and the goals of rural development, studies the new role of the state and state-led interventions in the context of globalisation and the role and potential of NGOs in rural development, highlights the rural livelihood framework and the impact of endogenous efforts at rural development in various European and Asian countries, and presents participatory methods for addressing problems like food security, women's empowerment and poverty alleviation.

Globalising Rural Development M. C. Behera, 2006-01-01 Tribal Studies - Emerging Frontiers of Knowledge Tamo Mibang, 2007 Annada Charan Bhagabati b 1939 Indian anthropologist contributed articles Towards New Developmentalism Shahrukh Rafi Khan, Jens Christiansen, 2010-10-04 Although neo-liberalism has been critiqued from various perspectives, these critiques have not coalesced into a concrete alternative in development economics literature. The main objective of this book is to name and formulate this alternative, identify what is new about this viewpoint and project it on to the academic landscape. Routledge Handbook of the History of Global Economic Thought Vincent Barnett, 2014-08-27 The Routledge Handbook of the History of Global Economic Thought offers the first comprehensive overview of the long-run history of economic thought from a truly international perspective. Although globalization has facilitated the spread of ideas between nations, the history of economics has tended to be studied either thematically by topic in terms of different currents of thought or individually by economist. Work has been published in the past on the economic thought traditions of specific countries, but this pioneering volume is unique in offering a wide-ranging comparative account of the development of economic ideas and philosophies on the international stage. The volume brings together leading experts on the development of economic ideas from across the world in order to offer a truly international comparison of the economics within nation-states. Each author presents a long-term perspective on economics in their region, allowing global patterns in the progress of economic ideas over time to be identified The specially commissioned chapters cover the vast sweep of the history of economics across five world regions including Europe England Scotland Ireland Italy Greece Spain Portugal Germany Sweden Russia and the Ukraine the Americas the USA Canada Mexico and Central America Spanish Speaking South America Brazil and the Caribbean the Middle East Turkey Israel Arab Islamic Economics Persia Iran North Africa Africa West Africa Southern Africa Mozambique and Angola and the Asia Pacific Region Australia and New Zealand China Southeast Asia the Asian Tigers India This rigorous ambitious and highly scholarly volume will be of key interest to students academics policy professionals and to interested general readers across the globe

Ethical Trade, Gender and Sustainable Livelihoods Kiah Smith, 2014-03-21 Fair and ethical trade is often criticized for being highly gendered and for institutionalizing the ethical values of consumers the priorities of NGOs and governments and most of all food retailers But little is known about how women smallholder farmers experience diverse ethical standards or whether and how standards reflect their values local cultural and environmental contexts or priorities for achieving sustainable livelihoods Linking gender smallholder livelihoods and global ethical trade regulations this book reveals that multiple understandings of social justice environmental sustainability and well being or ethicality exist in parallel to those institutionalized in ethical trade schemes Through an in depth case study of smallholder subsistence and French bean farming in Kenya the book grounds the analysis of livelihoods gender and ethical trade in women smallholders perspectives links the macro level of markets with the micro level of livelihoods and engenders relations of power structure and agency in food networks It brings together disparate bodies of theory to illustrate the knowledge strategies and values of women smallholder farmers that are often beyond the scope of ethical trade regulations It also provides a challenging new vision for doing food systems research
