Eco-Innovation and Green Productivity for Sustainable Production and Consumption, 2nd edition Munir Ahmad, Cem Işık, Zeeshan Fareed, 2025-09-12

With the graduation of time, the desire for enhanced production and consumption scales motivated the global economies to opt for the race to the bottom approach, leading to environmental unsustainability. On the one hand, economies focused on escalated production levels proliferating non-renewable energy consumption and reducing energy productivity, leading to production-based carbon dioxide (CO₂) emissions. On the other hand, international trade of high CO₂ emissions embedded goods has skyrocketed the consumption-based CO₂ emissions. Since production and consumption-based CO₂ emissions challenge environmental sustainability, there is an urgent need to pursue sustainable production and consumption to realize the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) dream. In this regard, eco-innovation came into play to transition the conventional production setup to a cleaner production mode. Eco-innovation involves all types of technological advancements extending contributions to the SDGs. In this regard, climate technologies and environmental technologies involving renewable energy (e.g., wind, solar, biogas), energy-efficient technologies (e.g., energy-efficient electric appliances), environmental pollution reduction technologies (e.g., carbon scrubbing filters, water purifiers), waste mitigation technologies play a tremendous role in mitigating climatic adversities and environmental unsustainabilities. By contributing to the responsible use of natural capital, eco-innovation facilitates efficient energy utilization, improving energy productivity as well as environmental sustainability. Moreover, eco-innovation has the inherent potential to aggravate sustainable production modes through green productivity, a tool to enhance industrial outputs with fewer harms to the environment. As a progressive move, green productivity growth promotes a new trend of producing more economic output by consuming fewer resources and safeguarding ecosystems. The mainstream empirical literature substantiated that eco-innovation and green productivity remained critical players in limiting CO₂ emissions and promoting environmental sustainability. Literature also witnessed that eco-innovation ameliorated energy productivity by motivating the countries to adopt cost-saving and environmentally friendly technologies. On the contrary, the rebound effect supported the environmental deterioration impact of such technologies. Against this backdrop, this Research Topic will provide an opportunity to further delve into the influencing mechanisms triggered by eco-innovation and green productivity growth on energy productivity and environmental sustainability for a futuristic perspective of sustainable production and consumption.

This Research Topic welcomes theoretical and empirical original research articles and reviews Research themes and areas include but are not limited to the following Links between eco innovation green productivity growth and energy productivity for sustainable production Climate technologies and carbon neutrality applications for sustainable production Firm level environment related innovation practices Renewable and energy efficient industrial transition for sustainable production Eco innovation through the firm life cycle for sustainable production and consumption Green innovation driven business models for sustainable production Climate technology driven policies for sustainable production and consumption Eco innovation and zero emissions agenda implementation Geographic Information Research Massimo Craglia,H Onsrud,2004-01-14

Geographic Information Research is a broad discipline and is being actively pursued world wide A group of researchers in both North America and Europe have come together as contributors to this volume as a way of combining their expertise The emphasis is on matters of political strategic and organizational importance rather than on technology or systems and covers the theory and social and political practice which goes hand in hand with GIS Technological Innovations for Managing Tropical Diseases Matthew Chidozie Ogwu,Sylvester Chibueze Izah,2025-02-19 Tropical diseases continue to impose a significant burden on global health particularly in low and middle income regions These diseases challenge healthcare systems exacerbate economic disparities and threaten global public health In this rapidly evolving landscape integrating advanced technologies offers unprecedented opportunities to transform the prevention diagnosis monitoring and treatment of tropical diseases This groundbreaking volume explores biosensor advancements wearable technologies artificial intelligence predictive modeling mobile health and biotechnological innovations Each chapter delves into how these cutting edge solutions address the unique challenges of tropical diseases from improving diagnostics and disease surveillance to enabling equitable access to care in resource limited settings The book also examines the ethical technical and economic barriers to implementation providing actionable strategies to overcome these challenges Key features include In depth analysis of innovative diagnostic tools including biosensors and IoT enabled wearables Insights into AI and machine learning applications for outbreak prediction and resource allocation Case studies of mobile health telemedicine and robotics in tropical disease management Exploration of biotechnological and therapeutic advances tailored to tropical diseases Critical analysis of ethical considerations data security and equitable technology access A forward looking perspective on emerging trends and their alignment with global health goals Aligned with the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals SDGs this book emphasizes the role of technology in achieving SDG 3 Good Health and Well being and SDG 9 Industry Innovation and Infrastructure It is an indispensable resource for public health professionals researchers policymakers bioengineers healthcare technologists and academics seeking to address the complexities of tropical diseases with innovative sustainable solutions This is a transformative guide to leveraging technology for a healthier more resilient world Population, Migration and Settlement in Australia and the Asia-Pacific Natascha Klocker,Olivia Dun,2018-12-07 The chapters in this book reflect on the work of seminal Australian geographer the late Professor Graeme Hugo Graeme Hugo was widely respected because of his impressive contributions to scholarship and policy in the fields of migration population and development which spanned several decades This collection of works contains contributions from authors whose own research has been influenced by Hugo and includes numerous authors who worked closely with Hugo throughout his career The collection provides an opportunity to reflect on Hugo s legacy and also to foreground contemporary scholarship in his key areas of research focus The chapters are organised into two thematic threads Part I contains works relating to Population Migration and Settlement in Australia while Part II focuses on Labour and Environmental Migration in the Asia Pacific Together these two thematic threads provide broad coverage of Graeme Hugo s key areas of research focus The chapters also serve as a reminder of Hugo s steadfast concern with producing careful scholarship for the public good and seek to prompt continued work in this vein The chapters originally published in special issues in Australian Geographer Sustainable Evidence-based Decision-making Francesco Chiappelli,2010 In the situation that finds us the road most travelled is that which we all know best and which makes us most comfortable It often is the pathway that brings us to excessive waste unrecyclable materials and fuels and arrogant impositions and demands upon communities and surroundings all in the name of our commodity We have come to use the word globalisation to mean in the minds of many imposing of my way because you are still ignorant of the best way which is my way of course hence it is my responsibility duty and intent to educate you to my way Certainly this is a rash generalisation which we will need to address and rectify in the course of this monograph It nevertheless shines the light unto why in many instances the road most travelled is one of unsustainable behaviours decisions and actions in the short and long term By contrast the road less travelled actually the road most often not taken is that which seeks valid viable and sustainable solutions for the betterment of the individual local communities societies cultures regions Proceedings of the GIS Research UK 16th Annual Conference ,2008 Discovery and Innovation ,2002 Geographic Information Systems in Fisheries William Lawrence Fisher, Frank J.
