

The background of the entire image shows three lit lanterns resting on a wooden plank surface. On the left is a small, square black lantern with a single candle. In the center is a tall, rectangular lantern with a single candle. On the right is a round, ornate lantern with a single candle. The scene is dimly lit, with the primary light source being the candles inside the lanterns.

Within A Budding Grove Marcel Proust, 2024-07-04 My mother when it was a question of our having M de Norpois to dinner for the first time having expressed her regret that Professor Cottard was away from home and that she herself had quite ceased to see anything of Swann since either of these might have helped to entertain the old Ambassador my father replied that so eminent a guest so distinguished a man of science as Cottard could never be out of place at a dinner table but that Swann with his ostentation his habit of crying aloud from the housetops the name of everyone that he knew however slightly was an impossible vulgarian whom the Marquis de Norpois would be sure to dismiss as to use his own epithet a pestilent fellow Now this attitude on my father's part may be felt to require a few words of explanation inasmuch as some of us no doubt remember a Cottard of distinct mediocrity and a Swann by whom modesty and discretion in all his social relations were carried to the utmost refinement of delicacy But in his case what had happened was that to the original young Swann and also to the Swann of the Jockey Club our old friend had added a fresh personality which was not to be his last that of Odette s husband Adapting to the humble ambitions of that lady the instinct the desire the industry which he had always had he had laboriously constructed for himself a long way beneath the old a new position more appropriate to the companion who was to share it with him In this he shewed himself another man Since while he continued to go by himself to the houses of his own friends on whom he did not care to inflict Odette unless they had expressly asked that she should be introduced to them it was a new life that he had begun to lead in common with his wife among a new set of
