The Last Half Century of Chinese Overseas Elizabeth Sinn, 1998-01-01 The papers collected in this anthology look at Chinese overseas residing in five continents in the half century after the Second World War from many new perspectives Some papers raise questions about the Chinese diaspora in broad conceptual terms and inquire into the meaning of being Chinese outside China Other papers examine life in local communities analysing how historical and contemporary circumstances affect their lives and the ways they negotiate their identity in the host country In depth case studies further bring out the complexity of the subject by identifying the range of variables including the social economic political and cultural characteristics of the places of origin and destinations as well as emigration and immigration policies which affect the patterns of migration and the nature of settlement in any place at any time This is especially highlighted in chapters using a comparative approach With scholars from different disciplines using different types of data methodologies and theoretical tools the richness of the subject matter becomes apparent This volume will no doubt go a long way both to broaden and deepen our understanding of the Chinese overseas and by showing the many possibilities for further investigation to strengthen Chinese overseas as a field of study

Racism and the Labour Market D. van Arkel, 1995 The contributions in this book emphasize three types of historical situations First situations where racially structured unfree labour relations e.g. slavery turned into free labour markets or where previously unfree labourers tried to enter the labour market as immigrants Second situations where white settlers subjugated peripheral societies thereby creating a new labour market The main issue in these situations is whether and if so how these situations resulted in racial segmentation Third situations where a long established labour market segmented along class lines but not along racial lines is confronted with immigrants The 23 contributions deal with countries on all continents in the period after 1830
