Educating People of Faith John H. Van Engen, 2004-02-13 A much needed addition to the emerging literature on the formative power of religious practices Educating People of Faith creates a vivid portrait of the lived practices that shaped the faith of Jews and Christians in synagogues and churches from antiquity up to the seventeenth century This significant book is the work of Jewish Roman Catholic Orthodox and Protestant scholars who wished to discover and describe how Jews and Christians through history have been formed in religious ways of thinking and acting Rather than focusing solely on either intellectual or social life the authors all use the concept of practices as they attend to the embodied contextual character of religious formation Their studies of religious figures community life and traditional practices such as preaching sacraments and catechesis are colorful detailed and revealing The authors are also careful to cover the nature of religious education across all social levels from the textual formation of highly literate rabbis and monks engaged in Scripture study to the local formation of illiterate medieval Christians for whom the veneration of saints shrines street performances of religious dramas and public preaching by wandering preachers were profoundly formative Educating People of Faith will benefit scholars and teachers desiring a fuller perspective on how lived practices have historically formed people in religious faith It will also be useful to practical theologians and pastors who wish to make the resources of the past available to practitioners in the present

Bremmer (jr.),Cornelis Dekker,2010 Throughout the early Middle Ages education and learning in Western Europe underwent a substantial development from Italy across the Alps from Latin to the vernacular and from secular to although not exclusively religious With Latin as its prime medium developments in education and learning were genuinely international and allowed for a steady exchange of teachers and texts across borders and institutions Members of the fifth century Gallo Roman senatorial classes such as Eucherius of Lyons and Cassiodorus became bishops abbots or founders of monasteries and thereby catalysts in the transformation from secular to religious education Then as now intellectuals travelled taking both their learning and their books with them Theodore of Tarsus travelled from the extreme end of the Mediterranean to Italy and across the Alps John Scottus Eriugena migrated from Ireland to France

Boniface from England to Germany while Abbo later made a journey from Fleury to Abingdon and back to name only a few examples With the mobility of intellectuals comes the movement of texts and books ranging from Pliny's Historia naturalis and Isidore's Etymologiae or the works of Bede to many of the smaller texts and fragments which have been the subject of study in the Storehouses project Although almost all of the precise details of classroom practice in the early Middle Ages remain hidden to the modern eye and identifiable students copy books or note pads are rare some of the texts and books that have survived still recall the monastic auditorium or schola because of their potential use in the classroom or in view of the texts found in these books Often these texts and manuscripts testify to the international developments outlined above and to the international nature of the world of early medieval learning The articles in this second volume of Storehouses of Wholesome Learning emanate from the second workshop in the project this time held at Leiden in June 2005 They focus on illuminating the multifaceted practice of learning by laying bare the exchanges of scholarship between the British Isles and the continent From the Development of the Foetus found in Bremmer's contribution to the Fifteen Signs of Doomsday the encyclopaedic knowledge that was disseminated all over Western Europe in written texts and in all likelihood through oral transmission featured strongly in the practice of early medieval learning The subject of that learning was nothing less than life itself both in the physical and in the spiritual sense of the word
