Iron Age and Hardware, Iron and Industrial Reporter, 1927 The Iron Age, 1927 Conservation Drones Serge A. Wich, Lian Pin Koh, 2018-05-31 Increasing numbers of ecologists and conservation biologists have begun to explore the use of drone technology to obtain accurate and up to date data on the distribution and density of species as well as the threats to their habitats in their ongoing attempts to conserve and monitor biodiversity Conservation drones are low cost autonomous and operator friendly unmanned aerial vehicles that can be used for surveying mapping and monitoring both habitat and biodiversity They are fast becoming a valuable complement to ground based surveys and satellite imagery for a wide range of ecological and conservation applications The authors pioneered the use of conservation drones for the purpose of monitoring orangutan populations in Southeast Asia They subsequently founded ConservationDrones.org to share their knowledge of building and using drones with colleagues in the wider environmental community This website has proved highly popular and this book aims to further build capacity to use drones and inspire others to adapt emerging technologies for practical conservation Cyber Operations and International Law François Delerue, 2020-03-19 This book offers a comprehensive analysis of the international law applicable to cyber operations including a systematic examination of attribution lawfulness and remedies It demonstrates the importance of countermeasures as a form of remedies and also shows the limits of international law highlighting its limits in resolving issues related to cyber operations There are several situations in which international law leaves the victim State of cyber operations helpless Two main streams of limits are identified First in the case of cyber operations conducted by non state actors on the behalf of a State new technologies offer various ways to coordinate cyber operations without a high level of organization Second the law of State responsibility offers a range of solutions to respond to cyber operations and seek reparation but it does not provide an answer in every case and it cannot solve the problem related to technical capabilities of the victim

Ethnographic Constructions of Indigenous Others George Byrne, 2024-04-30 This book examines the ways in which indigeneity interacts with climate change politics at multiple levels and at the same time offers a self critical reflection on the role of ethnographic research and researchers in this process Through a multi sited ethnography it shows how indigeneity and climate change mitigation are at this point so intensely intertwined that one cannot be clearly understood without considering the other While indigenous identities have been re defined in relation to climate change it argues that Indigenous Peoples continue to subvert pervasive notions of the nature culture dichotomy and disrupt our understanding of what it means to be human in relation to nature It encourages students and researchers in anthropology international development and other related fields to engage in more meaningful reflection on the epistemic shortcomings of the West including in our own research and to acknowledge the ongoing role of power coloniality extractivism and whiteness in climate change discourses
